

There is nothing more tragic than paying a nonrefundable expense, then having to cancel. You feel bad because something unexpected (and probably terrible!) happened, and the vendor feels bad because your fees have already been committed and cannot be refunded - even in a terrible and sad situation.

This is where Trip Cancellation Insurance comes in. For a fee - based on your age, cost and length of trip - you will be reimbursed for cancellation due to a 'covered reason'. The covered reasons include all of the unexpected things, like an illness, injury or death that prevent you from traveling. NOTE: Documentation and paperwork required to file a claim!
